NO NATION WIDE STEEL STRIKE HIGH UNION OFFICIALS DECLARES

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17—"The nation-wide steel strike is a dream," said Chairman John Fitzpatrick of the federal committee of the Steel and Iron workers here today. Fitzpatrick made this statement after the session adjourned at 2 o'clock. The meeting will be reconvened at 4 o'clock.

Fitzpatrick said "it was likely that no decision would be reached before tomorrow."

After meeting at the office of Wm. D. Foster, secretary of the national committee for organizing iron and steel workers, the delegates proceeded to the Mongehala House where the credentials were examined and each man vouched for to guard against outside intrusion. Drastic appeals against the postponement of the nation wide strike of steel workers were made to the delegates attending the conference of the heads here today. Although only accredited delegates were at the meeting, and the room carefully guarded, portions of the speeches reached the newspaper men in the hall.

Indications were that the meeting will not adjourn for several hours.

HARROWING DETAILS OF COSTAL STORM CONTINUE TO POUR IN

CORPUS CHRISTI, Sept. 17—The death list for Sunday's storm and tidal wave reached 199, according to reports early today. Property damage is estimated at from ten to fifteen millions in the devastated district. Bodies have been recovered from the following points: Corpus Christi 51, Portland 32, Aransas Pass 6, Rockford 7, Rosita and vicinity 30, Odon and vicinity 9. Work of relief among the thousands homeless was well under way today. The first relief train arrived last night and physicians immediately began work among the injured and sick. Refugees were housed in tents.

HOUSTON, Sept. 17—More than 250 are dead from Sunday's storm, Mayor Sparks estimated today. The list included the dead of Corpus Christi and the north shore of the Lungas Bay. All of the unidentified bodies are mutilated beyond recognition. Bodies of 29 identified were buried this morning. A second relief train arrived at 9 o'clock this morning. It will go to Corpus Christi. The train carried over one hundred soldiers from Brownsville and San Antonio who will assist the relief workers in Corpus Christi.

HOPE OF IRISH FOR FREEDOM LIES IN LEAGUE WILSON TELLS WEST

By HUGH BAILEE
United Press Staff Correspondent

Aboard the President's Train Aproaching San Francisco—Answering questions of San Francisco's Labor Council with regard to Ireland's protest under the peace settlement, President Wilson today pointed out that the League of Nations sets up a forum to which the people should bring any matter that is liable to upset the peace and freedom of the world.

The drive for the ratification of the treaty as it stands is being carried by the President today into San Francisco and Oakland, strong-holds of Senator Johnson who is now on the road in a counter offensive against the pact.

The President intends to take the ferry from San Francisco to Oakland at nine o'clock this morning.

COUNTY FAIR EDITION

ALL IS READY FOR BIGGEST DAY OF COUNTY FAIR

The crowd at the fair yesterday afternoon witnessed a half mile running race, in which Umalala, the Clearfield horse came in first, with Roe Bro a near second and "Punxsy Flash" third.

The Fair Association makes the following statement concerning this affair:

"In regard to the accident which occured during the motorcycle race on Tuesday afternoon, in which John Flegal and Clyde Curry collided, resulting in slight injuries to Mr. Curry, the Fair Committee wishes to exonerate both young men from blame for the occurrence, as we feel that they are both interested in the program and that they were both doing the best they could, under the circumstances, to avoid a mishap.

Fair Committee."

The Wallace Vocal Orchestra, which made so great a hit last year, with the fine music, are on the job again this year, better than ever before and are being very well received by the park crowds.

The exhibits are now complete and we feel safe in making the broad statement that they are the largest and best ever gotten together at any fair in this section of the State. People who visited Indiana's big fair and then looked the Clearfield exhibits over, say the local people completely outclass this feature of the Indiana fair.

A large crowd of out of town visitors are here today and tomorrow's attendance promises to be a record breaker.

Philipsburg and Clearfield play ball this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Tomorrow DuBois is the attraction and Billy Adams will twirl for the locals.

NOW WOULDN'T THAT MAKE YOU MAD

One of the relics at the fair is an old day book formerly the property of David Wesley Jones, grandfather of Mrs. M. R. Lucas, corner Market and Fifth streets. Mr. Jones had a saw mill and store along Milesburg pike in Centre county and in looking over his day book we saw a number of entries which look rather funny compared with present day prices. The book was started in April of 1820 and contains the accounts of a number of old-time Clearfield and Clearfield county people.

According to the entries the daily wage at that time was 50 cents per day and Charles Huston received $1 "for making one harrow." He was paid in store goods at that.

John McIntosh was evidently an "extra good hand" because he was paid $4.00 "for five days work at price agreed on," or 80 cents per day (in trade.)

Andrew Gregg got 2205 feet of pine boards (it was good pine those days) for $18.05.

Samuel Green only wanted 44 feet, he paid 33 cents for them.

Joseph White traded in "14 ounces of feathers" and received therefor 1-2 pound of chocolate at 18 1-2c; 1-4 lb. of tea at 7 1-2c and 2 lbs. of butter at 25c.

Joseph Elinger purchased one quart of whiskey "on tick" and was charged 16 cents for it.

Joseph Phillips bought 1 1-2 lbs. of cheese for 19c and one half pound of butter for 6c.

Joseph Shirk, father of M. Shirk who operated a tannery on Fourth street traded with the Centre county merchant in 1825 and traded in "4 lbs. and 7 ounces of sole leather and one-half side of upper" and brought back to Clearfield merchandise sufficient to cover the amount.

Andrew Peters of Bradford town ship, entered into an agreement to take 10 sheep on the shares and was to keep them for three years giving Mr. Jones one half the increase.

Frederick Shugart purchased 4 lbs. of sugar for 50c and that is two pounds better than he could do today almost one hundred years later.

ANOTHER ISSUE OF BONDS IS NOW POSSIBLE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Another popular issue of long term bonds or an increase in tax rate was indicated by Chairman Good, of the appropriations committee in a speech on the government's financial condition.

The treasurer, he said, faces an inevitable deficit of $3,591,276,345.26 by the end of the present fiscal year, June 30, 1920. Even if Congress does not appropriate another dollar the government obligations for the year, Mr. Good says, will total $10,831,201,586.26, while the total revenues will be $7,239,928,240.

CHARLES T. KURTZ'S MOTHER DIES

Mrs. J. C. Kurtz, mother of Charles T. Kurtz passed away at the family home in Reading, Pa., at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning, after an extended illness due to advancing years, at the ripe old age of 82.

The deceased was the widow of the late Rev. J. C. Kurtz, who preceded her to the grave some two years ago. In addition to her son Charles T. she is also survived by one daughter Miss Lizzie, at home.

The funeral will take place Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at Hanover, Pa.

STOCK OPENINGS

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—Irregularity of prices today marked the stock market opening. United States Steel opened at 104 3-4 off 7-8 Bethlehem B. at 96 1-2 or 1-8, Mexican Petroleum at 215 1-2 off 1-8, Studebaker at 118 3-4 up 3-8.

Miss Bessie McCartney of Blandburg is visiting at the home of Mrs. Dale Rupert on Dorey street.

RUMBERGER, RALSTON AND CHASE WINNERS

MOORE AND CRISSMAN AUDITORS

The primary election did not create a great deal of excitement in Clearfield and as a result only a few more than 1000 votes were polled.

This condition maintained throughout the county with the exception of the city of DuBois where a hot local campaign and a "put the home candidates over" slogan secured a turn out of 2077 voters.

The Republicans nominated the following ticket:

County treasurer—Amos Rumberger, of Houtzdale.

Prothonotary—George W. Ralston, of Clearfield.

Register and Recorder—Edward B. Chase, of Clearfield.

County Commissioners — Jesse E. Dale and T. R. Weimer, of DuBois.

County Auditors—Thomas E. Moore of Grampian and J. H. Crissman, of Clearfield.

The DuBois city mayoralty fight resulted in the renomination of Mayor Adam Haag by 223 plurality over ex-Chief of Police Morrison. The City Commissioners are Albert, Breon, Donaldson and Minns.

The Democrats polled a very light vote at their primary and the winners are likely to be:

County Treasurer—Ira C. McCloskey, of Clearfield.

Prothonotary—John Scollins, of Houtzdale.

Register and Recorder —Chester Millburg, of Glen Richey.

County Commissioners—Amos R. Hess and M. L. Farrell of Clearfield.

Following is the result of the voting in Clearfield:

THIRD WEEK OF CIVIL COURT

The third week of September term of civil court opened Monday morning, with Judge Bell presiding. The first case was that of Bailey vs Fuge. The parties were from Morrisdale, and the case grew out of an automobile smashup. Bailey alleged that Fuge was responsible for the collision and after hearing the evidence, the jury were of the same opinion and returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, in the sum of $87.50. Walter Welch upheld the pluintiff and John C. Arnold the defendant.

The case of DuBois Fertilizer Co. vs John Falk was called Monday evening and following the securing of a jury, court adjourned until after the primary, and the case was resumed when court opened this morning.

The case of John M. Chase estate against the N. Y. C. railroad for fire damage to timber land, was continued until next term.

On account of Judge Bell having to supervize the counting of the primary vote, by reason of the County Commissioners being candidates for re-election, Court will no doubt adjourn when the pending case is disposed of.

BACK AFTER THIRTY-FIVE YEARS

John Hancock, a former Clearfield county resident, is here from his home in Nebraska on a visit to his sister, Mrs. M. A. Passmore, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Adams, on Martin street.

Mr. Hancock has prospered finely in the west. He hopes to be able to meet some of his old friends at the fair this week.

ADMITTED TO THE BAR

Edward T. Kelley, who has been a law student in the office of J. P. O'Laughlin, Esq., was admitted to the practice of law in the courts of Clearfield county on Monday morning. Mr. Kelley has been a resident of Clearfield the past several months and has made many friends here, who wish him every success in his chosen profession. The new attorney will associate himself with Mr. O'Laughlin in the practice of the law.

OIL CITY GIRL TELLS HARROWING TALE

AKRON, O.—Mary Culshak, aged 15, in company with five Mexicans held here on charges of shop lifting, told the police today she was kidnapped by the band in Oil City one month ago, and was taken to Canada, where she was forced into a marriage with Tony Marino. She said her parents are conducting a nation wide search for her.

Entered at Post Office at Clearfield, Pa., as second class matter.

DuBois is kind to its hometown people but woe to the poor devil who seeks greener pastures outside the portals of the city. H. H. Spencer one of the finest men who ever come out of the city, was turned down cold by his old home town for no other reason than that he brought his wife and family to our fair city.

Three years of hammering by the U. S. Marshal did not seem to have much effect on the old board. Mr. Dale was the obect of his vicious attacks in almost every issue. He repeatedly gave Dale credit with being the brains of the board and demanded his defeat. In the light of election returns, every knock was a boost. Keep at it Brother Short and Dale will carry the ticket at the general election.

The ranks of the bolsheviki in Clearfield may be increased to the extent of at least fifty good citizens who held tax receipts, long residence in the borough and possessed all the other qualifications necessary to participate in the primary election except having their names entered on the party registration books. In many cases these men declare that they had the best of reasons for thinking that they were registered. No one can blame them for being considerably "het up" over the affair. There is something wrong with a system which permits of such conditions. Most of these men have been long time residents of Clearfield and regular adherents to their respective parties.

TAGEBLATT TACTICS

The patriotic people of Pennsylvania strongly condemned the unethical and unprofessional actions of the editors of the Philadelphia Tageblatt for "scissoring" news and for their generous use of the paste brush in adding sentences and paragraphs to news to serve their own interests. The people of an enlightened nation will just as strongly condemn those few remaining editors who apparently run their news columns as a clothes rack on which to hang "wet" arguments.

Yesterday the United Press wire carried the following dispatch which was printed in The Progress:

"WASHINGTON D. C.—The Federal Treasury already faces a deficit of $3,291,273,345.26 for the present fiscal year, Represehntative Good of Iowa declared in a speech in the House today. He sounded a warning that the actual financial condition is so alarming that the nation must pause to consider obligations before making further expenditures. 'The demand on the treasury is staggering,' he said."

Here is the headline The Progress carried:

NATION FACES DEFICIT OF THREE BILLIONS, GOOD TELLS HOUSE

A newspaper not fifty miles from Clearfield saw fit to add this sentence to the dispatch without using any of the regular designation to indicate that it was the work of the booze controlled editor, "The loss of revenue from the prohibition laws is a matter of serious consequence."

Then with their manufactured and rebuilt press dispatch this is the headline they carried:

FEDERAL TREASURY IS FACING THREE BILLIONS OF DEFICIT PROHIBITION LAWS ADD BURDEN

This gentleman can take a lesson from the experience of the Tageblatt in doctoring news.

KAISER SAWING WOOD

LONDON, Sept. 17—A recent visitor to Amerongen, chosen by the former German kaiser as his place of exile, writes as follows: Wilhelm of Amerongen is a man with a Vandyke beard and no ambition, unless the sawing up of 10,000 trees can be called an ambition. In the early days of his internment he occasionally shot in the neighboring fields, but now he just sulks and saws. Under a fir-tree surrounded by a screen, with his doctor as an assistant, he saws methodically from ten in the morning till one in the afternoon. Every hour he has a "breather," during which he smokes a cigarette, and he generously shares his case with the laborers. He has been known even to unbend so far as to allow a humble woodcutter to light his cigarette at the burning end of the imperial "fag."

There is a small and diminishing "court" at the castle, and everybody is bored with the ex-Kaiser's nightly pretense of playing at kings. Before dinner the village barber visits the castle, brushes the imperial hair, trains the imperial moustache, and trims the imperial beard. When he first came to Amerongen, Wilhelm had his own barber, but the latter was tempted to talk by an enterprising newspaper correspondent, and he was sent back to Germany. And one of the most rigid rules of the ex-Prussian court is, that if a servant once leaves the imperial service, he or she can never return.

At present the men round the ex-Kaiser consist of Excellent von Gontard, Marshal of the Court; Court Councillor Knauf; Captain von Ilsemann, private secretary; Dr. Karl Foerster, body physician and Excellenz Dr. J. Kriege, financial adviser, while Countess Keller, a white-haired old aristocrat, is the lady-in-waiting.

Why We Welcome Small Accounts

Many people believe that a bank does not want small accounts.

In such accounts, however, the profits are mutual.

The bank that encourages small accounts often sees them grow into large ones.

The possession of a bank account inspires the depositor to saving habits and teaches him to be business-like.

We are glad to serve the small depositor, believing his connection with the bank will benefit both him and ourselves.

HE CAME BACK

By MARY W. FORD

"Connie, Connie," called Mary Roberts from the other side of the office, where she was sitting at her desk, a letter tightly clutched in a small palm.

"Sorry, Mary, dear, but you'll have to save what you want to tell me ... noon. I have a book filled with notes that I have to transcribe yet."

"Well, I'm coming over, Connie. I simply must tell someone. It's too good to keep all to myself, and I feel so happy."

Constance Grey was the stenographer for Cummings & Cummings, while Mary Roberts was clerk. Both girls had attended business college together, and developed a steadfast friendship while there. By chance they were both assigned to work in the same office.

"Now, Mary, if it's truly going to relieve you any to tell me I'll agree to have you tell me the wonderful news, but please make it brief."

"Honestly, Conn, I really think you're grouchy this morning, and it does not become you one bit," said little Mary mischievously. "You do look so charming when you smile Conn, dear."

Of course this brought the smiles to Connie's face, and Mary was pleased to note that much at least. In fact Conn had been rather gloomy lately, and Mary knew something was troubling her chum.

"He's coming on the Mongolia, Conn," whispered Mary in Connie's ear.

"Oh, Mary, I'm so glad for your sake. After waiting nearly two years so patiently Is it any wonder you are so happy with such news." But at the same time a wistful look crept into Connie's pretty blue eyes, and her thoughts seemed to be far away. Mary noticed this and must have guessed the truth.

"Connie—when is Jack coming? Have you heard any word yet?"

Connie shook her head sadly. "Not a word, Mary, for six long months," and a tear trickled down one side of her cheek. Mary quietly slipped back to her own desk, her eyes filled with tears also.

"Bud is coming home, and I'm so happy, but poor Connie, her heart is broken," she thought sadly. "I wonder why he doesn't answer her letters," she added mentally.

Connie was working steadily at her typewriter, and Mary, tucking her letter away lovingly in her skirt pocket, also started working, but alas! Mary's thoughts were elsewhere than on her work, and try as she would, she could think of nothing but that wonderful ship that was bringing Bud Marden home to her after two long years of patient waiting.

Connie went home that evening sad at heart, and she, too, pictured that wonderful ship coming in with dear little Mary's Buddy, but where was Jack—why, oh, why didn't he write? Had he forgotten so soon the home they had planned they would have upon his return? All those happy dreams were dreams of bygone days now, and when she would pass a khaki clad boy and his sweetheart, arm in arm, laughing happily, that same wistful expression would creep into her eyes.

The following day Mary was absent from the office. She had gone down to meet the Mongolia. Connie shut her desk up at closing time and left the building, but just as she was about to turn the corner, two large hands were placed over her eyes, and a familiar voice was saying, "Kiss me, Conn, and I'll take my hands away, but not before." Jack had already kissed her before she could protest, and, opening her eyes, she gazed into two big brown eyes that belonged only to Jack Foster. Then followed explanations of why he failed to write. He had been wounded and knocked about from one hospital to another and unable to write. Arm in arm they walked home like two happy children, and as they were turning the next corner, whom did they meet but Mary and Bud.

"Oh, Conn, it's wonderful to think Jack came on that boat after all. Bud told me all about the surprise that was planned for you, and I was overjoyed," cried Mary happily.

"Mary, dear," said Connie smilingly, "this is the happiest day of my life."

"Say, Jack," cried Bud Marden suddenly, "what do you suppose the firm will have to say to these young ladies when they both tender their resignations together?"

"Well," laughed Jack, "the only way we can fix matters up is to invite them to our wedding."

Evil in Idleness.

When a man has all of this world's goods he needs he usually ceases to develop. He sets out to "take his ease, eat, drink and be merry." He may become infatuated with the process. For a time, at least, he doubtless will think himself the blessed of heaven. But these are among the mechanical and passive factors of existence. Ingenuity is turned from productive channels to selfish purposes. Ideas of human welfare are lost in the mass of plans and attempts for personal pleasures. This stagnates altruistic effort—nay, it kills those impulses that mean uplift and progress. Take away the appeal to a man's better self and you rob him of the chance to become his best. A man needs the incentive of competition of his fellows.—Pennsylvania Grit.

Is there a Scientist In Your Laundry?

Do you work by "rule of thumb" while you labor with your family washing? Does your laundress still obey only her own whims, or does she wash your clothes in the way that trained investigators have found to be best?

For there is a haphazard and an exact method of washing.

In our laundry we leave nothing to chance. We retain a scientist on our staff. With his help we have made our methods not approximately, but exactly right.

From him we have learned just how warm the water should be for the various varieties of fabrics. He has told us how much and the kinds of soap to use, and why

The use of ammonias and bleaches is still common with many housemives and laundresses. Science has taught us how to do without them.

Other of our cleaning processes have been similarly improved and refined.

Instead of the old-time "hit-or-miss" methods of the laundress, we wash according to formulas that many experiments have taught us are best.

These are the methods we employ when our driver brings us your family bundle.

If by chance you are one of those who have not yet taken advantage of our superior laundering system, telephone us and our driver will call for your washing.

HOME TOWN HELPS

FREE PLANS FOR DWELLINGS

United States Housing Corporation's Scheme to Assist Own-Your-Own-Home Committees.

The fact that plans for dwellings, prepared by the United States Housing corporation during war time for various government projects, are to be made available for general public use by the own-your-own-home section, information and education service, United States department of labor, will serve to stimulate the interest of women in all parts of the country in this movement.

Several types of houses have been selected, and the plans for these will be given to own-your-own-home committees which are now carrying on campaigns in more than 40 cities. These plans are for dwellings that will best serve the needs of average families. Beauty and utility have been combined in the most practical manner and the plans are capable of many variations. It is explained that the purpose is not to interfere in any way with the work of local architects by thus providing government plans, free of cost, but it is expected that when the estimates in widely separated states are compiled the information will be of value to prospective home owners, while it will afford comparisons of the varying cost of construction in many parts of the United States. The employment of local architects is advocated.

Requests that local own-your-own-home campaigns be started without delay were sent out by the United States department of labor to 400 cities. Letters were addressed to mayors, labor organizations and the clergy, as well as to clubs and other associations that have expressed willingness to aid the campaigns. While there are now 40 cities conducting well-advanced own-your-own-home campaigns, nearly 200 others have started the work of stimulating building.

SEES NEED FOR ZONING LAW

Writer Points Out Why Exclusively Residence Districts Should Be Afforded Proper Protection.

Chicago is asking the Illinois legislature for a zoning law—a law that will permit cities in Illinois to say what part shall be reserved for residence purposes. This is a thing that every city in the country has some interest in because it is a step in the right direction, asserts the Davenport Times. There must be factory and commercial districts, of course, and there must also be residence districts. But it isn't fair to a man who has developed a residence property, beautified the grounds, and arranged the house to suit him, to have all of sudden, some sort of business concern established next door, to the determent of his home. Every city in the country has numerous examples of just that sort of thing. Restricting residence property is going to become more and more the thing as the years go by. We have a few districts in Davenport that are thus protected, but there are many other districts where the people who own homes have no protection at all from the possibility of undesirable construction and business enterprises on the lots next door.

Building a House for Sunshine.

One of the problems of modern city planning is to get sunshine. For example, to quote a Canadian city planner propounding what almost sounds like a conundrum: "How shall a detached building be constructed and oriented so that not only the exterior wall surfaces, but also the surface of the ground around them shall have the direct rays of the sun for as long a time as possible on December 21?" The problem, it appears, can be worked out, and has been, in the case of at least one town, in which each house, and even each building in the business section, is a solution of this technical problem. It appears also that the way not to do it is to follow the long established custom of many builders in the north temperate zone and square the walls of the building with the points of the compass. The town that gets all possible sunlight has no north and south or east and west streets, and the walls of its structures stand at various angles with the weather vane, if there is one, on the church steeple.

Own a Home.

The ownership of homes makes for the spirit of cooperation for the good of the community, based upon full appreciation of the fact that no man's real success can be built upon the failure of those around him. Of the lasting impressions that one gains upon going to a new town are the character of its inhabitants and the character of the houses that they live in.

Roller-Skating in Business.

Roller-skating, once indulged in only for pleasure, has now become an important accomplishment in many business houses. Several large mail-order houses in both Chicago and New York require office boys to know how to get about on skates, giving them a carefully worked-out route between the different departments.

Jersey Suits for the Demi-Season

"When in doubt choose a jersey," is good advice if a new suit must be bought in the late summer. Certain of the arbiters of style are devoted to this fabric and it is always represented among the new models in suits that make their appearance as regularly as spring or fall approach. It led the way for many of the new silk weaves and silk fiber materials that have encroached on its popularity for summer wear, but in wool it remains an ideal demi-season material. Its softness and its unmussable quality, together with the fine way in which it stands cleaning, are strong points in its favor, altogether, the wool jersey suit is a good thing to own.

Two models are shown above that will be particularly interesting to young women who must be outfitted now for school or college. The smart suit at the left foretells the cool days of autumn with a collar and scarf of angora, and has an original feature or two that catch the attention. The skirt is wider and shorter than those that appeared in the spring and has a wide, overlapping seam down the back. It is gathered in about the waist line and finished with two bands of wide braid about the hem. The coat is straight, closing up the front and split at the sides. A wider band of braid across the back panel emphasizes the fact that it is longer than the front, and the long fringed scarf slips through straps set on at each side. These, and a plain belt that buttons in the middle of the back, are new details of making that are clever and attractive.

A blue suit at the right of the picture follows closely the style that has been so successful during the summer, with plain skirt and jacket with vest front. This skirt also is wider than those of the passing season, but among those that hesitate to grow shorter. The collar and cuffs are ornamented with a braid that simulates embroidery and a band of it heads the set-in pockets at each side. A girdle with looped-over ends, finished with long silk pendants, matches the braid used for decoration, and a vest of American Beauty fiber silk provide a happy ending to the simple story of this youthful model in between-seasons suits. The taffeta hats shown with them are of just the same character—that is, they are neither of summer nor winter, but of the times or climate between.

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Says backache is sign you have been eating too much meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you have your bowels, by flushing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sours, tongue coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to get up two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good reliable physician at once or get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water you drink between meals and you will wonder what became of your backache and bad feelings.

HELPED UNCLE SAM RAISE ONE BILLION

War Savings Chief Retires But Will Unofficially Aid Thrift Movement.

After two years of active service in the great war fund raising campaigns of the government during which he assisted in the raising of hundreds of millions of dollars, L. McLain Watters, Director of the War Savings Division, Third Federal Reserve District, has resigned to resume private business. The resignation is effective from September 15th.

Mr. Watters' retirement as director does not mean however that he will discontinue his interest in the government thrift movement. The organization built up by him will continue the work under supervision of Governor J. Price Fessenden with Mr. Watters acting in an advisory capacity.

This organization which is almost entirely volunteer one, with chairmen and women of each county in the various districts has been doing splendid work in carrying the third and fourth liberty loans and selling hundreds of millions of dollars worth of small government securities.

E. McLAIN WATTERS.

Mr. Watters was successively Associate Sales Director of Treasury Certificates of Indebtedness Chairman of the Advisory Committee for Pennsylvania Victory Loan Committee, and War Savings Director.

During Mr. Watters term as Associate Sales Director, a total of approximately one billion dollars was raised in the Third District by sales of Certificates, which were in the nature of short term loans, enabling the government to pursue its war policies unhampered by financial considerations.

As Advisory Committee Chairman for Pennsylvania during the Victory Loan Drive, Mr. Watters organized the state's plan of campaign. He advocated the home rule system by which each county was entrusted with the conduct subject to headquarters supervision of its own loan campaigning. Mr. Watters toured the state in support of the loan and contributed such energetic leadership that the Pennsylvania section of all other divisions of the Third Federal Reserve District in oversubscription of the Fifth Liberty district of the state with two million dollars in which it was originally asked. This condition was accredited to loan quota allotted to Mr. Watters. Under Mr. Watters' leadership for the first time in the four campaigns led Philadelphia in actual amount of over subscriptions. Almost $2,000,000 worth of bonds were sold in excess of the quota of $15,000,000.

In addition to conducting the State Victory Loan Campaign Mr. Watters directed the War Savings activities of the entire Third Federal Reserve District, which includes 18 Pennsylvania counties, 9 New Jersey counties and all of Delaware. He took charge on January 1919 and due to the faith he is employed by him, public interest in Thrift and War Savings stamps was maintained despite the overshadowing competition of the Victory Loan drive. Sales were encouraged and during the loan drive and have been steadily increasing.

Mr. Watters opposed spectacular methods of sale of small government securities and worked for their distribution through public demand based on a desire to own and hold the certificates on their intrinsic investment worth. He conducted a combined educational and sales campaign, with the result that redemptions of 1919 Stamps in the Third District have been held down to a very low percentage of the many millions of dollars worth sold.

Mr. Watters is frequently called to the headquarters in an advisory capacity while serving as War Savings Director.

KEEP RATS AWAY FROM HENS

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every poultryman should be on guard continually against rats. They destroy feed, eggs and fowls, and are inveterate enemies to all kinds of poultry, from chicks, squabs, ducklings and young turkeys just out of the shell to tough old birds awaiting the hatchet at the close of a long and noisy career. Although most of their depredations are confined to eggs and young birds, when driven by hunger rats kill full-grown fowls at roost, biting them through the head or neck.

Complaints about rats have come to the United States biological survey, department of agriculture, from many quarters. For example, a farmer in Virginia reported 26 turkeys killed by these pests in a night. Another, in Kansas, lost between 200 and 300 chickens and many eggs by rats during the course of one summer. His neighbors had similar experiences. From New Jersey has come a report of rats killing young ducks. An Ohioan has complained that the animals burrow beneath his coops and take chicks from under the hen. In certain neighborhoods of Massachusetts half a season's batch of chickens and ducklings have been killed by rats.

Rats multiply rapidly when left undisturbed, where there is plenty to eat. One pair may increase to more than 2,000 in a single year. Whoever allows his property to become overrun by them invites vexation and loss.

SELECTS WHITE SOX TO CAPTURE CHAMPIONSHIP

"The White Sox will win the pennant in the American league," said Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics. "The Chicago players, collectively, are a smart crew, and with Cicotte pitching championship ball since the season started, and with some of the other twirlers working in championship form, I do not see where New York or Cleveland will be able to beat Khi Gleason to the flag." Mack said he looked forward to seeing the Giants battle the White Sox for the world championship this fall.

The poultry breeder should be very sure that the chicks are getting all they need, for trouble and disaster follow faulty feeding.

The poultry house should be built as low as possible without danger of the attendants' stooping their heads against the ceiling. A low house is more easily warmed than a high one.

There are many advantages to a single-pitch roof on the poultry house. This type is most easily built. It gives the highest vertical front exposed to the sun's rays and throws all of the rain water to the rear.

Leaving baseball, football and boxing aside, there is no longer a great disparity between woman's and man's athletic prowess. But whether the women should be permitted to compete with the men in the golf, tennis, shooting and other championships is debatable ground. If the men oppose it, one can hardly blame them, for it must be years before victory over a woman will be regarded as anything but "Dead Sea Fruit" and defeat as anything but a disgrace.

Tobacco-smoke is one of the pet abominations of the former German Kaiserin, so that the exiled Wilhelm, the once most highest, has to go into the garden of Castle Bentinck when he wishes to enjoy his cigar or cigarette.

NO NATION WIDE STEEL STRIKE HIGH UNION OFFICIALS DECLARES

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17—"The nation-wide steel strike is a dream," said Chairman John Fitzpatrick of the federal committee of the Steel and Iron workers here today. Fitzpatrick made this statement after the session adjourned at 2 o'clock. The meeting will be reconvened at 4 o'clock.

Fitzpatrick said "it was likely that no decision would be reached before tomorrow."

After meeting at the office of Wm. D. Foster, secretary of the national committee for organizing iron and steel workers, the delegates proceeded to the Mongehala House where the credentials were examined and each man vouched for to guard against outside intrusion. Drastic appeals against the postponement of the nation wide strike of steel workers were made to the delegates attending the conference of the heads here today. Although only accredited delegates were at the meeting, and the room carefully guarded, portions of the speeches reached the newspaper men in the hall.

Indications were that the meeting will not adjourn for several hours.

HOPE OF IRISH FOR FREEDOM LIES IN LEAGUE WILSON TELLS WEST

By HUGH BAILEE
United Press Staff Correspondent

Aboard the President's Train Aproaching San Francisco—Answering questions of San Francisco's Labor Council with regard to Ireland's protest under the peace settlement, President Wilson today pointed out that the League of Nations sets up a forum to which the people should bring any matter that is liable to upset the peace and freedom of the world.

The drive for the ratification of the treaty as it stands is being carried by the President today into San Francisco and Oakland, strong-holds of Senator Johnson who is now on the road in a counter offensive against the pact.

The President intends to take the ferry from San Francisco to Oakland at nine o'clock this morning.

COUNTY FAIR EDITION

ALL IS READY FOR BIGGEST DAY OF COUNTY FAIR

The crowd at the fair yesterday afternoon witnessed a half mile running race, in which Umalala, the Clearfield horse came in first, with Roe Bro a near second and "Punxsy Flash" third.

The Fair Association makes the following statement concerning this affair:

"In regard to the accident which occured during the motorcycle race on Tuesday afternoon, in which John Flegal and Clyde Curry collided, resulting in slight injuries to Mr. Curry, the Fair Committee wishes to exonerate both young men from blame for the occurrence, as we feel that they are both interested in the program and that they were both doing the best they could, under the circumstances, to avoid a mishap.

Fair Committee."

The Wallace Vocal Orchestra, which made so great a hit last year, with the fine music, are on the job again this year, better than ever before and are being very well received by the park crowds.

The exhibits are now complete and we feel safe in making the broad statement that they are the largest and best ever gotten together at any fair in this section of the State. People who visited Indiana's big fair and then looked the Clearfield exhibits over, say the local people completely outclass this feature of the Indiana fair.

A large crowd of out of town visitors are here today and tomorrow's attendance promises to be a record breaker.

Philipsburg and Clearfield play ball this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Tomorrow DuBois is the attraction and Billy Adams will twirl for the locals.

NOW WOULDN'T THAT MAKE YOU MAD

One of the relics at the fair is an old day book formerly the property of David Wesley Jones, grandfather of Mrs. M. R. Lucas, corner Market and Fifth streets. Mr. Jones had a saw mill and store along Milesburg pike in Centre county and in looking over his day book we saw a number of entries which look rather funny compared with present day prices. The book was started in April of 1820 and contains the accounts of a number of old-time Clearfield and Clearfield county people.

According to the entries the daily wage at that time was 50 cents per day and Charles Huston received $1 "for making one harrow." He was paid in store goods at that.

John McIntosh was evidently an "extra good hand" because he was paid $4.00 "for five days work at price agreed on," or 80 cents per day (in trade.)

Andrew Gregg got 2205 feet of pine boards (it was good pine those days) for $18.05.

Samuel Green only wanted 44 feet, he paid 33 cents for them.

Joseph White traded in "14 ounces of feathers" and received therefor 1-2 pound of chocolate at 18 1-2c; 1-4 lb. of tea at 7 1-2c and 2 lbs. of butter at 25c.

Joseph Elinger purchased one quart of whiskey "on tick" and was charged 16 cents for it.

Joseph Phillips bought 1 1-2 lbs. of cheese for 19c and one half pound of butter for 6c.

Joseph Shirk, father of M. Shirk who operated a tannery on Fourth street traded with the Centre county merchant in 1825 and traded in "4 lbs. and 7 ounces of sole leather and one-half side of upper" and brought back to Clearfield merchandise sufficient to cover the amount.

Andrew Peters of Bradford township, entered into an agreement to take 10 sheep on the shares and was to keep them for three years giving Mr. Jones one half the increase.

Frederick Shugart purchased 4 lbs. of sugar for 50c and that is two pounds better than he could do today almost one hundred years later.

ANOTHER ISSUE OF BONDS IS NOW POSSIBLE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Another popular issue of long term bonds or an increase in tax rate was indicated by Chairman Good, of the appropriations committee in a speech on the government's financial condition.

The treasurer, he said, faces an inevitable deficit of $3,591,276,345.26 by the end of the present fiscal year, June 30, 1920. Even if Congress does not appropriate another dollar the government obligations for the year, Mr. Good says, will total $10,831,201,586.26, while the total revenues will be $7,239,928,240.

CHARLES T. KURTZ'S MOTHER DIES

Mrs. J. C. Kurtz, mother of Charles T. Kurtz passed away at the family home in Reading, Pa., at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning, after an extended illness due to advancing years, at the ripe old age of 82.

The deceased was the widow of the late Rev. J. C. Kurtz, who preceded her to the grave some two years ago. In addition to her son Charles T. she is also survived by one daughter Miss Lizzie, at home.

The funeral will take place Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at Hanover, Pa.

STOCK OPENINGS

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—Irregularity of prices today marked the stock market opening. United States Steel opened at 104 3-4 off 7-8 Bethlehem B. at 96 1-2 or 1-8, Mexican Petroleum at 215 1-2 off 1-8, Studebaker at 118 3-4 up 3-8.

Miss Bessie McCartney of Blandburg is visiting at the home of Mrs. Dale Rupert on Dorey street.

MOORE AND CRISSMAN AUDITORS

The primary election did not create a great deal of excitement in Clearfield and as a result only a few more than 1000 votes were polled.

This condition maintained throughout the county with the exception of the city of DuBois where a hot local campaign and a "put the home candidates over" slogan secured a turn out of 2077 voters.

The Republicans nominated the following ticket:

County treasurer—Amos Rumberger, of Houtzdale.

Prothonotary—George W. Ralston, of Clearfield.

County Commissioners — Jesse E. Dale and T. R. Weimer, of DuBois.

County Auditors—Thomas E. Moore of Grampian and J. H. Crissman, of Clearfield.

The DuBois city mayoralty fight resulted in the renomination of Mayor Adam Haag by 223 plurality over ex-Chief of Police Morrison. The City Commissioners are Albert, Breon, Donaldson and Minns.

The Democrats polled a very light vote at their primary and the winners are likely to be:

County Treasurer—Ira C. McCloskey, of Clearfield.

Prothonotary—John Scollins, of Houtzdale.

County Commissioners—Amos R. Hess and M. L. Farrell of Clearfield.

Following is the result of the voting in Clearfield:

THIRD WEEK OF CIVIL COURT

The third week of September term of civil court opened Monday morning, with Judge Bell presiding. The first case was that of Bailey vs Fuge. The parties were from Morrisdale, and the case grew out of an automobile smashup. Bailey alleged that Fuge was responsible for the collision and after hearing the evidence, the jury were of the same opinion and returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, in the sum of $87.50. Walter Welch upheld the pluintiff and John C. Arnold the defendant.

The case of DuBois Fertilizer Co. vs John Falk was called Monday evening and following the securing of a jury, court adjourned until after the primary, and the case was resumed when court opened this morning.

The case of John M. Chase estate against the N. Y. C. railroad for fire damage to timber land, was continued until next term.

On account of Judge Bell having to supervize the counting of the primary vote, by reason of the County Commissioners being candidates for re-election, Court will no doubt adjourn when the pending case is disposed of.

Entered at Post Office at Clearfield, Pa., as second class matter.

DuBois is kind to its hometown people but woe to the poor devil who seeks greener pastures outside the portals of the city. H. H. Spencer one of the finest men who ever come out of the city, was turned down cold by his old home town for no other reason than that he brought his wife and family to our fair city.

Three years of hammering by the U. S. Marshal did not seem to have much effect on the old board. Mr. Dale was the obect of his vicious attacks in almost every issue. He repeatedly gave Dale credit with being the brains of the board and demanded his defeat. In the light of election returns, every knock was a boost. Keep at it Brother Short and Dale will carry the ticket at the general election.

The ranks of the bolsheviki in Clearfield may be increased to the extent of at least fifty good citizens who held tax receipts, long residence in the borough and possessed all the other qualifications necessary to participate in the primary election except having their names entered on the party registration books. In many cases these men declare that they had the best of reasons for thinking that they were registered. No one can blame them for being considerably "het up" over the affair. There is something wrong with a system which permits of such conditions. Most of these men have been long time residents of Clearfield and regular adherents to their respective parties.

TAGEBLATT TACTICS

The patriotic people of Pennsylvania strongly condemned the unethical and unprofessional actions of the editors of the Philadelphia Tageblatt for "scissoring" news and for their generous use of the paste brush in adding sentences and paragraphs to news to serve their own interests. The people of an enlightened nation will just as strongly condemn those few remaining editors who apparently run their news columns as a clothes rack on which to hang "wet" arguments.

Yesterday the United Press wire carried the following dispatch which was printed in The Progress:

"WASHINGTON D. C.—The Federal Treasury already faces a deficit of $3,291,273,345.26 for the present fiscal year, Represehntative Good of Iowa declared in a speech in the House today. He sounded a warning that the actual financial condition is so alarming that the nation must pause to consider obligations before making further expenditures. 'The demand on the treasury is staggering,' he said."

Here is the headline The Progress carried:

A newspaper not fifty miles from Clearfield saw fit to add this sentence to the dispatch without using any of the regular designation to indicate that it was the work of the booze controlled editor, "The loss of revenue from the prohibition laws is a matter of serious consequence."

Then with their manufactured and rebuilt press dispatch this is the headline they carried:

This gentleman can take a lesson from the experience of the Tageblatt in doctoring news.

KAISER SAWING WOOD

LONDON, Sept. 17—A recent visitor to Amerongen, chosen by the former German kaiser as his place of exile, writes as follows: Wilhelm of Amerongen is a man with a Vandyke beard and no ambition, unless the sawing up of 10,000 trees can be called an ambition. In the early days of his internment he occasionally shot in the neighboring fields, but now he just sulks and saws. Under a fir-tree surrounded by a screen, with his doctor as an assistant, he saws methodically from ten in the morning till one in the afternoon. Every hour he has a "breather," during which he smokes a cigarette, and he generously shares his case with the laborers. He has been known even to unbend so far as to allow a humble woodcutter to light his cigarette at the burning end of the imperial "fag."

There is a small and diminishing "court" at the castle, and everybody is bored with the ex-Kaiser's nightly pretense of playing at kings. Before dinner the village barber visits the castle, brushes the imperial hair, trains the imperial moustache, and trims the imperial beard. When he first came to Amerongen, Wilhelm had his own barber, but the latter was tempted to talk by an enterprising newspaper correspondent, and he was sent back to Germany. And one of the most rigid rules of the ex-Prussian court is, that if a servant once leaves the imperial service, he or she can never return.

At present the men round the ex-Kaiser consist of Excellent von Gontard, Marshal of the Court; Court Councillor Knauf; Captain von Ilsemann, private secretary; Dr. Karl Foerster, body physician and Excellenz Dr. J. Kriege, financial adviser, while Countess Keller, a white-haired old aristocrat, is the lady-in-waiting.

Why We Welcome Small Accounts

Many people believe that a bank does not want small accounts.

In such accounts, however, the profits are mutual.

The bank that encourages small accounts often sees them grow into large ones.

The possession of a bank account inspires the depositor to saving habits and teaches him to be business-like.

We are glad to serve the small depositor, believing his connection with the bank will benefit both him and ourselves.

HE CAME BACK

By MARY W. FORD

"Connie, Connie," called Mary Roberts from the other side of the office, where she was sitting at her desk, a letter tightly clutched in a small palm.

"Sorry, Mary, dear, but you'll have to save what you want to tell me ... noon. I have a book filled with notes that I have to transcribe yet."

"Well, I'm coming over, Connie. I simply must tell someone. It's too good to keep all to myself, and I feel so happy."

Constance Grey was the stenographer for Cummings & Cummings, while Mary Roberts was clerk. Both girls had attended business college together, and developed a steadfast friendship while there. By chance they were both assigned to work in the same office.

"Now, Mary, if it's truly going to relieve you any to tell me I'll agree to have you tell me the wonderful news, but please make it brief."

"Honestly, Conn, I really think you're grouchy this morning, and it does not become you one bit," said little Mary mischievously. "You do look so charming when you smile Conn, dear."

Of course this brought the smiles to Connie's face, and Mary was pleased to note that much at least. In fact Conn had been rather gloomy lately, and Mary knew something was troubling her chum.

"He's coming on the Mongolia, Conn," whispered Mary in Connie's ear.

"Oh, Mary, I'm so glad for your sake. After waiting nearly two years so patiently is it any wonder you are so happy with such news." But at the same time a wistful look crept into Connie's pretty blue eyes, and her thoughts seemed to be far away. Mary noticed this and must have guessed the truth.

"Connie—when is Jack coming? Have you heard any word yet?"

Connie shook her head sadly. "Not a word, Mary, for six long months," and a tear trickled down one side of her cheek. Mary quietly slipped back to her own desk, her eyes filled with tears also.

"Bud is coming home, and I'm so happy, but poor Connie, her heart is broken," she thought sadly. "I wonder why he doesn't answer her letters," she added mentally.

Connie was working steadily at her typewriter, and Mary, tucking her letter away lovingly in her skirt pocket, also started working, but alas! Mary's thoughts were elsewhere than on her work, and try as she would, she could think of nothing but that wonderful ship that was bringing Bud Marden home to her after two long years of patient waiting.

Connie went home that evening sad at heart, and she, too, pictured that wonderful ship coming in with dear little Mary's Buddy, but where was Jack—why, oh, why didn't he write? Had he forgotten so soon the home they had planned they would have upon his return? All those happy dreams were dreams of bygone days now, and when she would pass a khaki clad boy and his sweetheart, arm in arm, laughing happily, that same wistful expression would creep into her eyes.

The following day Mary was absent from the office. She had gone down to meet the Mongolia. Connie shut her desk up at closing time and left the building, but just as she was about to turn the corner, two large hands were placed over her eyes, and a familiar voice was saying, "Kiss me, Conn, and I'll take my hands away, but not before." Jack had already kissed her before she could protest, and, opening her eyes, she gazed into two big brown eyes that belonged only to Jack Foster. Then followed explanations of why he failed to write. He had been wounded and knocked about from one hospital to another and unable to write. Arm in arm they walked home like two happy children, and as they were turning the next corner, whom did they meet but Mary and Bud.

"Oh, Conn, it's wonderful to think Jack came on that boat after all. Bud told me all about the surprise that was planned for you, and I was overjoyed," cried Mary happily.

"Mary, dear," said Connie smilingly, "this is the happiest day of my life."

"Say, Jack," cried Bud Marden suddenly, "what do you suppose the firm will have to say to these young ladies when they both tender their resignations together?"

"Well," laughed Jack, "the only way we can fix matters up is to invite them to our wedding."

Evil in Idleness.

When a man has all of this world's goods he needs he usually ceases to develop. He sets out to "take his ease, eat, drink and be merry." He may become infatuated with the process. For a time, at least, he doubtless will think himself the blessed of heaven. But these are among the mechanical and passive factors of existence. Ingenuity is turned from productive channels to selfish purposes. Ideas of human welfare are lost in the mass of plans and attempts for personal pleasures. This stagnates altruistic effort—nay, it kills those impulses that mean uplift and progress. Take away the appeal to a man's better self and you rob him of the chance to become his best. A man needs the incentive of competition of his fellows.—Pennsylvania Grit.

Is there a Scientist In Your Laundry?

Do you work by "rule of thumb" while you labor with your family washing? Does your laundress still obey only her own whims, or does she wash your clothes in the way that trained investigators have found to be best?

For there is a haphazard and an exact method of washing.

In our laundry we leave nothing to chance. We retain a scientist on our staff. With his help we have made our methods not approximately, but exactly right.

From him we have learned just how warm the water should be for the various varieties of fabrics. He has told us how much and the kinds of soap to use, and why

The use of ammonias and bleaches is still common with many housemives and laundresses. Science has taught us how to do without them.

Other of our cleaning processes have been similarly improved and refined.

Instead of the old-time "hit-or-miss" methods of the laundress, we wash according to formulas that many experiments have taught us are best.

These are the methods we employ when our driver brings us your family bundle.

If by chance you are one of those who have not yet taken advantage of our superior laundering system, telephone us and our driver will call for your washing.

HOME TOWN HELPS

FREE PLANS FOR DWELLINGS

The fact that plans for dwellings, prepared by the United States Housing corporation during war time for various government projects, are to be made available for general public use by the own-your-own-home section, information and education service, United States department of labor, will serve to stimulate the interest of women in all parts of the country in this movement.

Several types of houses have been selected, and the plans for these will be given to own-your-own-home committees which are now carrying on campaigns in more than 40 cities. These plans are for dwellings that will best serve the needs of average families. Beauty and utility have been combined in the most practical manner and the plans are capable of many variations. It is explained that the purpose is not to interfere in any way with the work of local architects by thus providing government plans, free of cost, but it is expected that when the estimates in widely separated states are compiled the information will be of value to prospective home owners, while it will afford comparisons of the varying cost of construction in many parts of the United States. The employment of local architects is advocated.

Requests that local own-your-own-home campaigns be started without delay were sent out by the United States department of labor to 400 cities. Letters were addressed to mayors, labor organizations and the clergy, as well as to clubs and other associations that have expressed willingness to aid the campaigns. While there are now 40 cities conducting well-advanced own-your-own-home campaigns, nearly 200 others have started the work of stimulating building.

SEES NEED FOR ZONING LAW

Chicago is asking the Illinois legislature for a zoning law—a law that will permit cities in Illinois to say what part shall be reserved for residence purposes. This is a thing that every city in the country has some interest in because it is a step in the right direction, asserts the Davenport Times. There must be factory and commercial districts, of course, and there must also be residence districts. But it isn't fair to a man who has developed a residence property, beautified the grounds, and arranged the house to suit him, to have all of sudden, some sort of business concern established next door, to the determent of his home. Every city in the country has numerous examples of just that sort of thing. Restricting residence property is going to become more and more the thing as the years go by. We have a few districts in Davenport that are thus protected, but there are many other districts where the people who own homes have no protection at all from the possibility of undesirable construction and business enterprises on the lots next door.

Building a House for Sunshine.

One of the problems of modern city planning is to get sunshine. For example, to quote a Canadian city planner propounding what almost sounds like a conundrum: "How shall a detached building be constructed and oriented so that not only the exterior wall surfaces, but also the surface of the ground around them shall have the direct rays of the sun for as long a time as possible on December 21?" The problem, it appears, can be worked out, and has been, in the case of at least one town, in which each house, and even each building in the business section, is a solution of this technical problem. It appears also that the way not to do it is to follow the long established custom of many builders in the north temperate zone and square the walls of the building with the points of the compass. The town that gets all possible sunlight has no north and south or east and west streets, and the walls of its structures stand at various angles with the weather vane, if there is one, on the church steeple.

Own a Home.

The ownership of homes makes for the spirit of cooperation for the good of the community, based upon full appreciation of the fact that no man's real success can be built upon the failure of those around him. Of the lasting impressions that one gains upon going to a new town are the character of its inhabitants and the character of the houses that they live in.

Roller-Skating in Business.

Roller-skating, once indulged in only for pleasure, has now become an important accomplishment in many business houses. Several large mail-order houses in both Chicago and New York require office boys to know how to get about on skates, giving them a carefully worked-out route between the different departments.

Jersey Suits for the Demi-Season

"When in doubt choose a jersey," is good advice if a new suit must be bought in the late summer. Certain of the arbiters of style are devoted to this fabric and it is always represented among the new models in suits that make their appearance as regularly as spring or fall approach. It led the way for many of the new silk weaves and silk fiber materials that have encroached on its popularity for summer wear, but in wool it remains an ideal demi-season material. Its softness and its unmussable quality, together with the fine way in which it stands cleaning, are strong points in its favor, altogether, the wool jersey suit is a good thing to own.

Two models are shown above that will be particularly interesting to young women who must be outfitted now for school or college. The smart suit at the left foretells the cool days of autumn with a collar and scarf of angora, and has an original feature or two that catch the attention. The skirt is wider and shorter than those that appeared in the spring and has a wide, overlapping seam down the back. It is gathered in about the waist line and finished with two bands of wide braid about the hem. The coat is straight, closing up the front and split at the sides. A wider band of braid across the back panel emphasizes the fact that it is longer than the front, and the long fringed scarf slips through straps set on at each side. These, and a plain belt that buttons in the middle of the back, are new details of making that are clever and attractive.

A blue suit at the right of the picture follows closely the style that has been so successful during the summer, with plain skirt and jacket with vest front. This skirt also is wider than those of the passing season, but among those that hesitate to grow shorter. The collar and cuffs are ornamented with a braid that simulates embroidery and a band of it heads the set-in pockets at each side. A girdle with looped-over ends, finished with long silk pendants, matches the braid used for decoration, and a vest of American Beauty fiber silk provide a happy ending to the simple story of this youthful model in between-seasons suits. The taffeta hats shown with them are of just the same character—that is, they are neither of summer nor winter, but of the times or climate between.

Says backache is sign you have been eating too much meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you have your bowels, by flushing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sours, tongue coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to get up two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good reliable physician at once or get from any pharmacist a few ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive cannot make a disagreeable effervescent lithia water drink and meat eaters. It is inexpensive cannot

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every poultryman should be on guard continually against rats. They destroy feed, eggs and fowls, and are inveterate enemies to all kinds of poultry, from chicks, squabs, ducklings and young turkeys just out of the shell to tough old birds awaiting the hatchet at the close of a long and noisy career. Although most of their depredations are confined to eggs and young birds, when driven by hunger rats kill full-grown fowls at roost, biting them through the head or neck.

Complaints about rats have come to the United States biological survey, department of agriculture, from many quarters. For example, a farmer in Virginia reported 26 turkeys killed by these pests in a night. Another, in Kansas, lost between 200 and 300 chickens and many eggs by rats during the course of one summer. His neighbors had similar experiences. From New Jersey has come a report of rats killing young ducks. An Ohioan has complained that the animals burrow beneath his coops and take chicks from under the hen. In certain neighborhoods of Massachusetts half a season's batch of chickens and ducklings have been killed by rats.

Rats multiply rapidly when left undisturbed, where there is plenty to eat. One pair may increase to more than 2,000 in a single year. Whoever allows his property to become overrun by them invites vexation and loss.

SELECTS WHITE SOX TO CAPTURE CHAMPIONSHIP

"The White Sox will win the pennant in the American league," said Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics. "The Chicago players, collectively, are a smart crew, and with Cicotte pitching championship ball since the season started, and with some of the other twirlers working in championship form, I do not see where New York or Cleveland will be able to beat Kid Gleason to the flag." Mack said he looked forward to seeing the Giants battle the White Sox for the world championship this fall.

The poultry breeder should be very sure that the chicks are getting all they need, for trouble and disaster follow faulty feeding.

The poultry house should be built as low as possible without danger of the attendants' stooping their heads against the ceiling. A low house is more easily warmed than a high one.

There are many advantages to a single-pitch roof on the poultry house. This type is most easily built. It gives the highest vertical front exposed to the sun's rays and throws all of the rain water to the rear.

BOTH NAMED RALPH

By an odd coincidence, Sylvester, the young Athletic pitcher, has the same name as old Sock-Sockalexis, the hard-hitting right fielder of the Athletic champions of 1902 and 1905. Old Sock is Ralph Seybold and the young hurler's name also is Ralph.

Leaving baseball, football and boxing aside, there is no longer a great disparity between woman's and man's athletic prowess. But whether the women should be permitted to compete with the men in the golf, tennis, shooting and other championships is debatable ground. If the men oppose it, one can hardly blame them, for it must be years before victory over a woman will be regarded as anything but "Dead Sea Fruit" and defeat as anything but a disgrace.

Tobacco-smoke is one of the pet abominations of the former German Kaiserin, so that the exiled Wilhelm, the once most highest, has to go into the garden of Castle Bentinck when he wishes to enjoy his cigar or cigarette.
